-- A. K. Park, Greenville's West End merchant, comes before our readers this week in fine shape. He has recently been in the Northern markets and made large purchases, and is better prepared than ever before to supply our people with a choice lot of goods that will do your heart good to look at and make your pocket-book resy easy at the thought of being emptied bk high prices on goods. Call on Mr. Part when in Greenville. He is in West End.

-Two wandering minstrels (man and woman) regaled a much mixed audience on our streets last Saturday with a few antiquated "rag-time" melodies, the accompaniment being a banjo in the hands of the man. -Smith & Bristow, that popular Green-ville firm of clothiers and gents' furnishers, pay their respects to the readers of Time JOURNAL this week and invite all to come and see them. This firm is too well known for us to comment on much, suffice it to say that all goods bought of them can be depended on to be exactly as represented and as low as the lowest, always considering the quality. They don't handle "shoddy" goods. Give them a call. You will be dealt with right. They are now in the Babb building on North Main street.

-The annual meeting of the Old Stone church and cemetery association was held in the church Friday 4th inst. It was fairly well attended and the regular business was transacted. Maj. J.
